

Carnatrix is a Carnatic–Western fusion band that brings together young, passionate musicians from diverse musical backgrounds. Blending the depth of Carnatic classical traditions with the energy and expression of Western music, Carnatrix has instruments ranging from mridangam and violin to cello, flute, clarinet, piano, and voice, and the group showcases how tradition and modernity can come together through music.

The band and the players are supported by their Music Groups and Gurukulams K School of Violin, KRIA Music School, GEMHS and KMR Siksha.

Here is a brief bio on the key players.

Dhanya, an eighth grader at Clark Middle School, has been playing the cello for the past three years. She is enthusiastic about music and excited to be part of the Carnatrix journey.

Krishna Prasanth Sampath Kumar is a freshman at the University of Texas at Dallas, majoring in Electrical Engineering. He has been learning mridangam for six years under the guidance of Vidwan. Dr. Kumbakonam R. Ganesh and the Late Vidwan. Chromepet G. S. Suresh.

Pranav Balakrishnan, a seventh grader, has a strong passion for percussion. He has trained in mridangam for five years under Shri T. S. Esha Prasad and Dr. Kumbakonam R. Ganesh, and is also a member of a Western percussion band.

Samhita, a sophomore at Independence High School, plays the flute and enjoys singing. She loves exploring different styles of music and bringing versatility and expression to her performances.

Shankar Umamahesh is a multifaceted artist—rapper, singer, songwriter, and classically trained violinist—pursuing a major in Computer Science at the University of Texas at Dallas. Deeply rooted in Carnatic music, he has performed extensively across the DFW area and teaches violin alongside his father at the K School of Violin. He is skilled in both Carnatic and Western violin techniques.

Sidhaarth, is a 5th Grader who loves to play the piano which he started self learning from age 5. Sidhaarth also learns Carnatic vocal from Vidwan Kalakad Thyiagarajan and mridangam from Dr. Kumbakonam R. Ganesh. He has performed in many concerts and music programs with his sister Sahana at Karya Siddhi Hanuman Temple, Murugan Temple, Ganesha temple.

Sahana is a freshman at Richland High who plays the piano and Clarinet. She is very active in her school band, and learning Carnatic vocal from Vidwan Kalakad Thyiagarajan.
